What the Wabash Did.
Peace reigns in Chicago once more among the railways. Around the Wabash freight depot at Chicago yesterday business was brisk. Agent Winans said he had taken back about 90 per cent of his old men at the old rates, but had required them to sign an agreement withdrawing from the Freight Handler's Union and not to join a similar organization while they remained in the employ of the company. The old check clerks had gone back to work as truckers; everything was serene. Of the new men many had requested to be paid off and sent home, and in each case the request had been complied with. All who wished to remain, however, were permitted to do so. All of the special police had been relieved, and quiet reigned.

What is the Park?
At the entrance to the band pagoda in Central Park is this notice, marked on a pine board: "No loitering up here." Evidently the city official who staked up that notice regards the park as a loitering place, as from the sign it goes from inference that people may loiter "down there" on the settees. The park is popularly regarded as a beauty spot in the centre of the city, and a place of temporary rest for tired humanity. Must it be taken as a fact that every man or woman who goes into the Park for a stroll or a brief rest is a loafer? That is the question that is at present worrying some of the veteran frequenters of the Park. Perhaps that plain looking official had better change the wording of that sign. Make it read: "No one allowed in this stand."

Conventions at the Court House.
The court house was engaged on Monday for the convention of the Mason county Probationists, to be held there on Saturday, June 6th, when delegates will be elected to attend the state convention to be held at Springfield. A leading St. Johnite said that the probationists would later on nominate candidates for congress, the legislature and county officers.

The court house will also be used on June 1st, 2d and 3d, in which to hold the convention of the Illinois State Labor organization.

A Card from Mrs. Ham.
Some days ago the REPUBLICAN printed a telegram from Indianapolis, alluding to the fact that Mrs. Hann, of Decatur, had sent a letter to the postmaster at Indianapolis, making inquiries for some suitable man with some means who wanted a wife with a little property. We are in receipt of the following card from Mrs. Hann, of this city:

Mrs. Edgerton—A few days ago I was informed that an article concerning me had been written by a Mrs. Hann, and published in your paper and in the absence of such a person living in Decatur, some have thought it must have been Mrs. Hann. Now I am not there to defend myself, I wish to say through your paper to those who have such an opinion of me that I know nothing in regard to this letter, and it was intended for me it has been done through malice by some one who wished to do me an injury, and I shall hereafter treat the matter with silent contempt. Mrs. Hann

"Fainting" the Towers.
The electric light towers and drop light arms are being painted fire red by the Jenney company. The man has his bucket of paint and with a rag he spreads the mixture on the iron, commencing at the top of the towers, 125 feet high. He sits on a plank attached to a swinging rope, held in check by a pulley. The painter is raised or lowered as desired by a man who pulls the string at the bottom.

Died at the Age of 71.
Jacob Spangler, one of the best known old residents of Decatur township, died last evening at his home, 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles east of the city, after a painful illness of three weeks, at the advanced age of 71 years and 10 months. The deceased had resided in this county since 1856. He was a widower, but leaves seven grown children. He was a brother of the late Mrs. J. D. Tait. He possessed considerable property during his life time, and served as a member of the board of supervisors several terms, making an efficient member of that body. The cause of his death was erysipelas.

Mr. Spangler was an honored member of Decatur Lodge No. 65, I. O. O. F. That order will conduct the funeral on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. D. P. Bunn will deliver the sermon.

Activity Again.
The W. O. Taylor Paper Co., at Chicago, sends us a circular to-day, stating that the strike of freight handlers in that city is at an end, and that orders will be promptly filled. The railway companies severally and Co. that they are prepared to make prompt shipments. Business was resumed in Chicago on Monday without any interference whatever. No more trouble anticipated.

In Chicago.
Judge O. B. Smith, of this judicial circuit, is in Chicago this week, holding court for Judge Rogers. Our quick-speaking judge is in demand. He will give the Chicago lawyers a few pointers about conducting model courts in the back counties.

Sold at Lake City.
WILBUR DUNKLE had a mare and colt stolen from a pasture south of the city on Saturday. The property and they are supposed to be somewhere in Christian county.

LATER.
To-day Marshal Mason received the following telegram:

LOVINGTON, ILL., May 11.
City Marshal, Decatur:
Danke's mare and colt were sold in Lake City on Saturday last.

C. N. SWADELL.
No further particulars are obtainable.

A lady is in Decatur to-day delivering the second volume of Personal Memoirs of Gen. Grant, which she procured before M. P. Murphy was appointed agent for Decatur.

Last evening Marshal Mason received from Capt. Eberhold, of Chicago, a photograph and description of A. R. Parsons, the rabid anarchist, wanted for murder and for inciting a riot at Chicago. Parsons is between 35 and 40 years of age, and is a man of good appearance, intelligent looking, and would never be taken for a law-breaker. The police here are on the watch for him. He is in hiding somewhere, but will be caught sooner or later.

S. S. McKAY has added a new picture to his large collection of celebrated personages. It is a big photograph of all Irish members of the British parliament, with O. S. Farnell, the great Irish Commander, as the central figure.

The Rev. P. S. Henson, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church at Chicago, delivered his lecture at the Baptist church last night, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Guild. The Doctor is one of Chicago's most popular and noted clergymen, a man of bright ideas, grand thoughts and possessing a big vein of humor in his composition. He had a large audience, and his talk on "Money, or the Golden Calf," was so amusing and instructive that none of the audience realized that 90 minutes had flown by when he had finished. The lecturer appeared to have an unlimited fund of anecdotes. It was as natural for him to spin a yarn of rich humor, as it was for him to talk, and while he was witty to a fault, his occasional bursts of eloquence and touches of tenderness quieted his auditors and brought tears to their eyes. Dr. Henson believes money is a thing not to be lightly esteemed. It is not a sin to be rich; God has no use whatever for a lazy, worthless, thriftless man, who will not work, but simply howls for bread. It is not a sin to be rich, or possess a desire to be rich. Man should improve his opportunities and talents to accumulate for purposes of natural enjoyment; but money is not the only evidence of riches. A man may be rich in health, in strength, in children, in having a good stomach; and in thought, having a good head on him; but money is the one thing that moves the world, inspires ambition, keeps things humming, gives a man position, and affords more solid comforts than anything else known. Alluding incidentally to the struggle of the laborer of the country to better their condition, with much vigor the Doctor declared that he had no use for the socialist, the communist, the anarchist, nor the rest of the hellish crew; but when he saw so much suffering in the world among those who had families and were striving hard to keep the wolf from the door, and knew so many men who had millions of money, not a dollar of which do they use to relieve the wants of their fellow men at their very doors, he felt that there was something wrong, and his sympathies went out to the man of toil who was struggling honestly to keep alive and better his condition.

The World's Champion.
J. S. Horrigan, the champion long distance pedestrian of the world is in the city, and will give an exhibition at the tabernacle on Saturday evening next. Mr. H. walked from New York to San Francisco, and back to Salt Lake, 6,000 miles in 104 days, and has just completed three six days' races, defeating O'Leary, Fred Krone, Antoine Stroger and Frank Hart. Saturday night he will walk a mile against the fastest aker in Decatur who will travel 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles. Will also lecture on his trip overland.

On Trial.
The trial of Emma, George and John Fleetwood, for the murder of their parents in April, 1884, was called before the circuit court at Charleston Monday morning. The trial will probably continue all this week. James Winkleson, who was accused and acquitted of the crime a year ago, is an important witness.

Base Ball Chat.
Manager Morgan has brought a number of base ball players to Decatur to give them a trial. Five are now in the city. They are: Mort Cook, catcher and first, Indianapolis; Charles Ingraham, catcher, first or third, Philadelphia; Lutzberg and Burns, battery, from Quincy, recently playing through Iowa and Missouri; Burns good short, second or field; Lutzberg excels in left field; also Chas. Smith, pitcher from Indianapolis, who with Cook will form a strong battery.

Wells and Weuts, a strong battery at Louisville, are held in reserve. Wells is a pitcher whom the Bridgeport manager wanted to get but failed.

Manager Morgan has sent to St. Louis for the champion amateur pitcher, Bart Grothers, who will arrive this week.

The players will be exercised at the park this afternoon.

Harry P. Miller's bid for the refreshment privilege at the Park for the season has been accepted. He and Mr. Reese will control the cushion privilege.

Improvements at the Park go on rapidly under the direction of S. D. Lyon. The grand stand will soon be completed.

On Sunday at Kankakee, William Stadman, aged 27, while playing base ball was struck on the side of the head by a ball from the pitcher, and died in ten minutes. He leaves a family.

There are five bids in from Decatur and one from Bloomington, offering to pave the streets of the city with brick and cobblestones at different figures.

Inspection.
Friday night the Decatur Guards will be inspected by Special Officer Jaquith, of Paris. It will be the first round-up of the company since their return from East St. Louis, where they did brave duty.

Yesterday Ben Boynton and Bert Meriwether gave Dan Bohon an order for six dozen white neckties. Bert and Ben are great on style, but object to paying 3 cents apiece for washing 1 cent ties.

"Father and Son" To-Night.
The Vincent dramatic company gave its initial performance last night at the opera house, and the hall was packed from the stage to the doors. The Irish play was very cleverly presented and was enthusiastically applauded. The comedian is Felix A. Vincent who is a whole team in himself, and the versatile actress, Eva Vincent, who is a song and dance artist of merit, also made a hit and became a favorite at once. The support is creditable. The troupe deserves a full house every night. The bill to-night is "Father and Son," to be followed by a ripping farce. Prices—10, 20 and 30 cents.

I. O. O. F.
A full attendance of Decatur Lodge No. 65, I. O. O. F., is requested at the hall this (Tuesday) evening, to make arrangements for the funeral of our late brother Jacob Spangler.

THE GAS WELLS.
The One at Macon Goes Dry—No Let Up at Litchfield after Four Years.

W. R. Whittaker, of Macon, in the city this week, says the natural gas well on the Thomas Davis farm, has flickered out, and the bright hopes raised that Macon street and houses might be lighted up in future by gas, are blighted—mipped in the bud. The well at Carr's Gordo still holds out, but interest in the discovery of natural gas in Central Illinois has not decreased in the least. Probably the most successful discovery of natural gas in the west was made at Litchfield, 61 miles below Decatur on the St. Louis branch of the Wabash road. A correspondent writes, that in 1879 in sinking a coal shaft just outside the corporate limits of Litchfield, petroleum was discovered. Two years passed before steps were taken to work this find. In September, 1881, boring for oil developed both oil and gas, the latter, however, not in great force. In August, 1882, sinking an oil well, gas was liberated at the depth of 650 feet. The fluid was conducted through piping to a height several feet above the top of the derrick, and being lighted every night for several weeks it illuminated the surrounding country and attracted crowds of spectators from far and near. The gas since that time has been used instead of coal in making steam to drive the oil-pumping machinery, and one family living near the wells have used it for domestic fuel and light. Further than this the gas was not utilized until last September, when the Litchfield council granted the desired franchise to a firm that proposed to supply the people of the town with gas both for fuel and light. Now there are five miles of main pipe laid, through which the gas is conducted from the wells to over 100 houses. In all of these it is used for fuel, and in many of them for lighting. After an experience of one month, the council has issued an opinion expressed by those who have tested the gas, and that is highly favorable. It is confidently expected that the number of houses will be at least doubled before next winter. The depth of the deepest well is about 1400 feet.

This morning Orlando Powers handed his check for $1417 to Contractor Grass—his contribution in cash for paving South Water street. He owns the property along the block on the east side of the street.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Hon. and Mrs. L. L. Haworth and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Loeb are in Peoria to-day. Elder and Mrs. Presy, of Taylorville, are guests of Manager Morgan and family.

James Millikin and J. W. Bace departed for St. Louis last evening. The former will go to Kansas City.

Felix Vincent is a comic comedian. He is an old-timer, having appeared in Decatur in 1866 with Mollie Williams as the star.

A little heiress has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Adams, at Columbus, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Adams, the grandparents, who reside in Decatur, are correspondingly happy.

Mark W. Harrington, Professor of Astronomy in the University of Michigan, will be in the city to-morrow to complete the examination of our High School. He will look into the work in mathematics and the natural sciences.

Miss Katie Wakefield, a prominent young society lady of Bloomington, was married last evening to Mr. Albert Brady, a young business man and journalist of Davenport, Iowa. The bride is the younger daughter of the late Dr. Wakefield, who became very wealthy and noted as a manufacturer of patent medicines.

A Japanese Novelty.

At the tabernacle on Tue. day evening, May 18th, the ladies of the Presbyterian church will give a sociable and Chinese-Japanese Bazaar, assisted by the famous Chinese students, Lung Don and Lee Fuen, who bring with them rich Oriental costumes, such as are worn by the richer classes in the "Flowery Kingdom." The students will appear magnificently dressed in silks and satins; they sing; use chopsticks in eating; exhibit queer musical instruments, and give any desired information of the habits of their people, speaking in either English or Chinese languages. There will be exhibited Chinese and Japanese oddities, wonders and works of art, painting, carving, charms, coins, etc. In connection with the entertainment a Chinese supper will be given, home ladies to handle all cash. The table will be lighted with Chinese tapers and lanterns.

SEALED BIDS will be received until Saturday, May 15, at 6 o'clock p. m., for advertising privileges on the new base ball fence, inside and outside. The Association reserves the right to reject any and all bids. J. A. MURPHY, Sec. and Treas.
